NEW BOARD OF DIRECTORS ANNOUNCED FOR WESTERN DEVELOPMENT MUSEUM

The Western Development Museum (WDM) is pleased to announce the members of the Board of Directors recently appointed by His Honour, The Honourable W. Thomas Molloy, Lieutenant Governor.

The WDM welcomes two new members to the Board. Jack Dawes, from Saltcoats, has been appointed as Director. He has a teaching background, is the former Executive Director at Prairie Oat Growers Association, a musician, broadcaster and history lover. Gwen Beitel, from Spring Valley has been appointed as Director. She is the Office Manager for MP Tom Lukiwski, and serves on the boards of Briercrest Museum, Providence Place in Moose Jaw and volunteers with the Sukanen Museum Group. History and its preservation is a passion for her.

Susan Lamb (Saskatoon) has been reappointed as Director. Nancy Martin (Regina) continues as Chair and Diana Ireland (Moose Jaw), Raymond Sadler (Biggar), and Sharon Mohagen (North Battleford) are continuing members of the Board.

The WDM is uniquely positioned to bring Saskatchewan communities together by instilling a shared appreciation of our province's cultural heritage. As the Province's history museum, we have a responsibility to serve our communities and seek out ways to have a positive impact for the people of Saskatchewan. The Board of Directors serve as Trustees for the WDM on behalf of the community and are responsible for ensuring the WDM fulfils its mandate and mission.

A Saskatchewan where everyone belongs and histories matter.
